Nature & Culture International Poetry Film Festival returns to Copenhagen in its 2nd edition

November, 2022 – Copenhagen

Husets Biograf, the oldest independent cinema of the city of Copenhagen, has been announced as the base for this year's edition of "Nature & Culture: International Poetry Film Festival", taking place the 20th of November at the cinema, with poetry performances, film screenings and director talks, as well as a digital version of all films from November 20 to the 30th on the Poetic Phonotheque's website.

The festival will be screening an official selection of documentaries, animations, experimental films, short films and poetry films which use a poetic language to discuss the current environmental viewpoints and humanity's relationship with nature. These films were chosen from approx. 600 films received from all over the world, and vary in genre, language, style and origin, but share a poetic style and a love for our environment as points of connection. All poetry films selected for this festival, additionally are added to the permanent archive of the Poetic Phonotheque, which rotates in screenings throughout the Nordic countries.

The Poetic Phonotheque is an initiative created in the beginning of the lockdown by Red Door Magazine in Copenhagen, to bring poetry to every household free of charge, with the purpose of maintaining and enhancing community connections through poetry. The goal of this archive is also to document the current trends, thoughts, subjects and styles happening internationally and locally through the voices that experience our current world through poetry. Poets are encouraged to add their voice to the collection of the Phonotheque by recording it directly on the website poeticphonotheque.com where the whole collection can be enjoyed.

The general public is invited to follow the Poetic Phonotheque's website and social media (@detpoetiskefonotek) to see the full program, receive open calls, see previous publications, and be inspired by the expressions of the creators all around us.

Nature & Culture – International Poetry Film Festival takes place on November 20, 2022 at Husets Biograf - Rådhusstræde 13, 2 th, 1466 Copenhagen, Denmark from 14 to 21. Get your tickets via billetto at:
